Dennis, Tina Jaffe : The Camper's Companion to Northern Europe: Campground and Roadside Travel Guide before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Camper's Companion to Northern Europe: Campground and Roadside Travel Guide:

From Library JournalThese two books could well turn out to be the vade mecum of would-be campers in Europe for years to come. Written in a cheerful, sensible style by two veteran campers, they are stocked with useful material, ranging from the do's and don'ts of buying a camper to basic planning for the journey; an account of some particularly interesting trips on canal barges and through chateaux country; and finally a country-by-country rundown of all information that a camper is likely to need. This includes, as well as a description of the facilities of some 700 campsites and extensive commentary on places of scenic, cultural, historical, and gastronomical interest, data for each country on such basics as currency, exchange rates, banking hours, store hours, fuel costs, emergency phone numbers, emergency road services, and a great deal more. Much of the factual information will, unfortunately, date rapidly, but the overall content of both books should stand the test of time. Thomas M. Robinson, Philosophy Dept., Univ. of Toronto
