Diana Henry : The Gastropub Cookbook - Another Helping before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Gastropub Cookbook - Another Helping:

WHERE ARE THE WONDERFUL SOUPS I'VE EATED SO OFTEN, HUNTERS' SOUP, PARSNIP SOUP, ETC. NOR WAS THERE A SOUP SECTION IN THE INDEX. I THOUGHT THE FOOD WITHIN THIS BOOK IS MORE THE UPGRADED, FANCY STUFF OF RESTAURANTS, RATHER THAT THE WONDERFUL FOODS OF OLD. PERHAPS I SHOULD HAVE EXPECTED THAT FROM THE NAME 'GASTROPUB', BUT I HAD HOPED FOR MORE. I DO THINK THERE ARE SOME WONDERFUL PUB FOODS, AND I WISH SOMEONE WOULD RESCUE THEM BEFORE THEY VANISH UNDER PARSNIP CHIPS AND THE LIKE. THE NORTH

OF ENGLAND AND SCOTLAND HAVE MUCH TO OFFER AT MANY PUBS. NOW THAT'S THE BOOK I'D LIKE TO BE PUBLISHED...ANYONE!1 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Good book but....By L. VillaI like the book and the 'few' recipes I got were quite good. I have no problems with the Seller as it was delivered quite fast and was in better shape than described. The book content itself, though, was more a journey into the pubs of Great Britain rather than a 'cookbook'.Turns out I ordered the 'wrong' book in that Diana Henry had 2 books and it was a bit confusing in the ordering as the general title is the same but the first one was what I wanted. (I ended up finding a copy of that in .com.uk.).The other book had a lot of recipes that I found intriguing and could definitely use. But this doesn't mean that this second book isn't good.. It's just that I would have bought this more as a reference for a 'tour' of some good gastropubs to visit rather than as a cookbook per se.0 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy Janet R.Fun cookbook; memories of some great trips

Features more than 150 of the best pubs from all over Britain and Ireland, with over 100 recipes from the top 20 pubs. These recipes are for homely food, much of which is based on traditional British and Irish cooking. Divided into regions, there is also a guide to the best pubs in the area.

New voice Diana Henry progresses from the successful "Crazy Water, Pickled Lemons" to "Gastropub": a look at the new phenomenon in the world of pub cuisine. Travelling all around the UK she hunts out these newly born culinary gems, more often than not nestling in some of the most beautiful countryside on offer. From novice chefs to Michelin star winners, they all display innovation, pride and a love of local produce. Each part of the country is explored with the best pubs detailed alongside a selection of their most popular recipes. And if you miss a table there you will find more to choose from in "the best of the rest" which concludes each section. Traditional shepherd pies and rib-eye steaks mix with the more exotic Conwy mussels with coconut milk and coriander and roast partridge with Vietnamese cabbage salad. English puddings like crumble and sticky toffee pudding feature on menus alongside the inspirationally mouth-watering choices of toffee apple ice cream and geranium-scented panna cotta with red gooseberries... Join in the celebration of these top pubs specializing in good old-fashioned comfort food and learn the inspiration behind them as divulged by their owners. Lavish photographs from Jason Lowe complement Diana's text, giving a wonderful picture of warmth and welcome in each featured hostelry. Forget a pint of lager and a packet of crisps and return to that long lost art of warm hospitality now enjoying such a renaissance in gastropubs up and down the country. - Lucy WatsonAbout the AuthorDiana Henry was named 'Cookery Writer of the Year' by The Guild of Food Writers in 2009 and in 2007 for her column in the Sunday Telegraph's Stella magazine.
