From Brand: Frances Lincoln : The Highlands: Land and Light before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Highlands: Land and Light:

The Highlands is a celebration of Scotland's wild places, a stunning and spectacular new perspective on the untamed mountains, lochs and glens from landscape photographer Craig Aitchison. Crafted over a period of six years, this book portrays the full drama of the Highlands and sets out to capture this rugged ancient landscape as it is transformed through the seasons by Scotland's tempestuous weather. Containing over 100 unique images from some of the remotest corners of the country this stunning portfolio is a collection of panoramic photographs that show Scotland at its best, with views of the nation's most loved locations from a fresh perspective. The Highlands renews and redefines the magic of this much loved landscape which will excite and delight those who know the Highlands well and reveal its character to those who have yet to experience the majesty of one of the world's most treasured landscapes.
