Editors of Time Out : Time Out Shortlist Florence before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Time Out Shortlist Florence:

2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Finally, a Useful Travel Guide By Diego Banducci We usually rely on DK Eyewitness Guides, which are great on the sights, but not so good on food and lodging. I ordered this book to fill in those gaps, and it more than proved its worth. A great guide for finding out what's currently going on in a city. Highly recommended. BTW: We recently returned from Florence where we ate in a wonderful restaurant named "Ganzi" [Trattoria Osteria Da Que' Ganzi, Via Ghibellina 70/rosso, 50122 Florence, Italy 0039-055-2260010, two blocks from Santa Croce]. After eating there the first night, we returned every night we were in Florence and always had delicious meals served with great hospitality. Check it out on TripAdvisor.

Best known as the center of Renaissance culture, Florence is also firmly planted in the 21st century and looking forward to the future. Recent innovations include new building projects such as a high-speed train link designed by Sir Norman Foster, as well as Firenze Nova, a fascinating satellite town being built from scratch. Even the most traditional aspects of Italian life food and drink are getting a revamp here, with an explosion of destination wine bars and trendy restaurants. This illustrated guide, written by knowledgeable locals, also contains comprehensive coverage of the city's arts and culture scene as well as hundreds of independent reviews. These critics save visitors time, money, and headaches by identifying Florence's best, worst, most fashionable, and most overrated.

About the Author Founded in 1968, Time Out has grown from humble beginnings into the leading resource for anyone wanting to know what's happening in the world's greatest cities. Alongside our influential weeklies in London, New York, Chicago and Dubai, we publish more than 20 magazines in cities as varied as Beijing and Beirut; a range of travel books, with City Guides now joined by pocket-sized Shortlist series; and an information-packed website. The company remains proudly independent, still owned by Tony Elliott four decades after he launched Time Out London. Written by local experts, and illustrated with original photography, our books also retain their independence. No business has been featured because it has advertised, and all restaurants and bars are visited and reviewed anonymously.
